IT'S NOT TOO LATE to get your copy of "Christ Transforming Culture," the official report of the Fifth Quadrennial MSM Conference held at the University of Kansas, at Lawrence: • 100 excellent photographs, some in full color • Speeches of conference leaders: Ralph W. Sockman, Philippe Maury, Harold Ehrensperger, Glenn Olds, Albert Outler, Bishop Booth, John O. Gross, Jameson Jones, Everett Tilson, Paul Deats, Charles M. Laymon, and others • Plus many other program features • 146 pages in all—the largest, most comprehensive MSM quadrennial report ever made—an unusual report.

A limited number of copies are available at cost—only $1 each.

Order now from the Department of College and University Religious Life, Box 871, Nashville, Tennessee.

THE MINISTRY

hard work, make no mistake about that, but it is more fun than any job in the world.

In many ways the greatest privilege of being a minister is coming into personal relationships with people in a way not open to other men. He will see people at their best and at their worst. To him who has been possessed by the dream of being a good minister of Jesus Christ, there will never come cynicism nor lasting bitterness. So often the pathway to God is through personal relations, and for the minister, that pathway is plain, straight, and bathed in light.

Let me close this with an incident related by Hans Zinsser that has meant very much to me in my ministry. He stood in the rain one day, as an obscure doctor was buried in a muddy grave on a Serbian battlefield. He was glad it was raining, because it obscured the tears which he could not hold back. And then he says:

I felt in my heart, then, that I never could or would be an observer, and that, whatever Fate had in store for me, I would always wish to be in the ranks, however humbly or obscurely; and it came upon me suddenly that I was profoundly happy in my profession, in which I would never aspire to administrative power or prominence so long as I could remain close, heart and hands, to the problems of disease. (Curtis and Greenslet, The Practical Cogitator, Houghton Mifflin, 1945, 270.)

With every man called to minister to the cure of souls, there will abide troubles, temptations, and triumphs, these three; but the greatest of these are triumphs.

If you don't have your copies, yet,
